We will pray the rosary, the litany of the BVM and we will celebrate Holy Mass in Croatian, on Wednesday and Friday. The rosary and litany devotion of the BVM will be in English at 6pm on Thursday followed by a Eucharistic service.

All are welcomed.

Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross

In today's readings we are invited to trace a journey of suffering, mercy, humility, and exaltation. The people of Israel, bitten by serpents in the wilderness, find healing by looking upon a bronze serpent lifted high on a pole. This strange remedy points forward to the mystery of the Cross, where Jesus is lifted up so that all who look to him in faith may live.

What at first seems like a symbol of punishment becomes a sign of salvation. The Israelites' cries of repentance are heard; God responds not by dismissing them, but by providing a means of healing. In a similar way, Christ's self-emptying on the Cross brings redemption to the world. He did not cling to his divine status but embraced our human frailty—and through that humility, death itself is overcome. What was once a symbol of shame becomes the seat of glory. Every knee is invited to kneel, every tongue to proclaim him Lord.

As we reflect on the Cross today, we are challenged to let go of our resistance to vulnerability and sacrifice. The Cross asks of us a willingness to bear discomfort, to acknowledge our wounds, and to direct our gaze toward Christ lifted up. In doing so, we discover that redemption is not found by avoiding pain, but through surrendering it, so that divine mercy may transform it.

In our daily lives, this might look like offering our burdens at the foot of the Cross, trusting that even our deepest wounds are not ignored, but are embraced by God's love. It might mean letting our pride fall away, allowing ourselves to be humbled in service of others, to bear one another's infirmities with compassion. This is how the Cross becomes not a final defeat, but a bridge to new life.

May we learn to live with the paradox that what seems weak is actually the channel of God's strength, and in Christ crucified, what appears as tragic becomes the path to glory.
