Awake to the Dawn of Hope

Advent begins with a simple, urgent invitation: wake up. Not in a harsh or fearful way, but like someone gently opening the curtains at dawn and letting the first light into the room. The Church gives us this season each year to remember that our lives are not random or aimless. Someone is coming. Someone has already come. And someone will come again in glory. Advent is about learning to live in that light.

If we are honest, many of us move through our days half-asleep spiritually. We are busy, distracted, preoccupied. We worry about money, health, work, family, the future. We scroll through our phones, chase deadlines, and carry hidden anxieties that never make it into our prayers. Advent does not pretend these things are unimportant. Instead, it asks a deeper question: in the middle of all this, what – or rather, who – are you really waiting for?

The first Sunday of Advent reminds us that history is going somewhere. God has a promise for his people: a future of justice, peace, and restored communion with him. This promise is not a vague wish; it has a face and a name in Jesus Christ. He has already entered our world in humility, he meets us now in grace and sacrament, and he will return in glory. Advent stretches our hearts in all three directions at once: we look back with gratitude, we live the present with attention, and we look forward with hope.

Because of this, Christians are called to live differently. We are not meant to drift through life like people in the dark who cannot see where they are going. God invites us to step out of the shadows of selfishness, resentment, and indifference, and to walk in his light. That begins in very concrete ways: the conversation we keep postponing, the apology we resist, the habit that quietly damages us, the person whose need we prefer not to see. Advent is a season to take these things seriously, not with guilt and shame, but with courage and trust.

The readings for this Sunday point us toward a world that desperately needs peace. We hear of nations learning a new way of living where weapons are no longer the first answer. We hear the call to live as people who belong to the day, not the night. We hear a warning not to be caught off guard, not because God wants to frighten us, but because love deserves our attention. When we love someone, we prepare for their arrival. We think about what will please them. We reorder our priorities.

Advent invites us to do exactly that with Christ. It is a time to ask: if I really believed he is coming, if I truly believed he is already near, what would I change? Where do I need to let go of bitterness? Where do I need to slow down and listen? Where is God asking me to be more honest, more generous, more merciful?

This does not mean adding a hundred new tasks to an already full calendar. Sometimes the most Advent thing we can do is to make space: a few minutes of silence each day, lighting a candle and simply saying, “Lord, I am here.” A short examination of conscience at night, asking, “Where did I notice you today? Where did I ignore you?” A simple act of kindness that no one will praise but that God sees.

Advent is not about perfection; it is about direction. We may still stumble, still get distracted, still feel the pull of old habits. Yet God does not give up on us. He is the one who comes to meet us. He is the one who gives us strength to change. He is the one who turns even small efforts into something beautiful.

So as we begin this new liturgical year, let us not be afraid of the light that God offers. Let us allow his hope to enter the dark corners of our hearts, his peace to touch our fears, his mercy to heal our past. Let us live these weeks not as people waiting for a distant celebration, but as friends preparing to welcome Someone who already stands at the door.

May this Advent be a time when we truly awaken – to the presence of Christ, to the needs of others, and to the deep, quiet joy of knowing that God is faithful and his promise is real.

BUDNOST U ADVENTU

U ADVENTU ili došašću Crkva na poseban način slavi Kristov dolazak: onaj (prije 2000 godina), kada je Riječ postala Tijelom u krilu djevice Marije, ali i onaj Kristov dolazak na koncu vremena, kada Bog bude bio sve u svemu. Bog provodi svoj naum spasenja, kraljevstvo se Božje ostvaruje među nama. On nas poziva da svojim životom budemo svjedoci i nositelji njegova spasenja u svijetu.

U povijesti kršćanstva bilo je ljudi, koji su s jedne strane prenaglašavali ljudsku slabost oslanjajući se na Božje silno milosrđe. Pa su onda mislili kako je posve nevažno što čovjek čini, jer je ionako sve grijeh što on čini. Zato bi po sebi bilo dovoljno samo se pouzdavati u Božju dobrotu i imati čvrstu vjeru u njegovo milosrđe. Drugi su, tjeskobni zbog nesigurnosti vlastitog spasenja, suviše naglašavali čovjekova djela: trapljenja, molitve, zadovoljštine i to tako da se činilo kao da spasenje svijeta ovisi o našim zadovoljštinama, a ne o Kristovu spasenju. Istina je, naravno, u sredini. Krist nas spašava, ali nas ne želi bez nas samih spasiti.

Krist sve čini, ali traži naš pristanak i našu suradnju. Zato je apostol Pavao jasan. Govori da odložimo djela tame. I onda sasvim određeno nabraja koja su to djela: pijanke, razvratnosti, svađe, ljubomora, to jest da čovjek općenito ne pogoduje požudama.

Ne smijemo zaboraviti te jednostavne pouke. Na početku došašća Crkva nam stavlja pred oči Kristov drugi dolazak na koncu vremena i potiče nas da budemo budni. Vrijeme je da se prenemo iz naših slabosti, jer je, nažalost, vrlo lako da se čovjek „opusti" u nekim svojim užicima. I neprimjetno „otkliznemo" u zavist, oholost, neumjerenost, srditost, lijenost.

Narav nam je ranjena grijehom, i stoga valja biti neprestano na oprezu. Rekao bih da nam upravo u tome smislu dobro dođu i ova posebna vremena u crkvenoj godini, kada uvijek iznova nastojimo „napraviti reda" u našoj nutrini.

Na početku smo došašća. Razmotrimo malo kako živimo. Sagledajmo malo naš život. Uzmimo malo vremena za molitvu i tišinu i pogledajmo kakva nas loša navika obuzima? Koja dobra djela najlakše propuštamo? U čemu sam najmanjkaviji kad su u pitanju moje staleške dužnosti? Kakvo ozračje donosim u svoju obitelj? A nakon toga, recimo u sebi, Božjom snagom, da možemo i hoćemo učiniti nešto novo. Jer, Bog je uz nas i, kako veli psalmist „s Bogom svojim preskačem zidine".

Vrijeme je da se oda sna prenemo i da odložimo djela tame. Sada je trenutak da se ne ponašamo kao površna djeca koja misle da na brzinu mogu srediti svoju sobu i onda odjuriti na igru. Naprotiv, možemo i trebamo na trenutak zastati, promotriti svoj život i, uz Božju pomoć, odlučno mijenjati ono što je potrebno.
