Divine Mercy Sunday

This Sunday invites us into the heart of one of the most beautiful truths of our faith: God's mercy knows no bounds. As we continue to celebrate the resurrection, we are reminded that Easter is not a single event—it is a season, a transformation, a new way of living. The Risen Lord meets His disciples not with judgment or reproach for their fear and abandonment, but with peace, presence, and purpose.

In a world that often glorifies self-reliance and strength, Divine Mercy Sunday calls us to rest in vulnerability. It is okay to be like Thomas—uncertain, hesitant, even skeptical. What matters is not how perfect our faith is, but how willing we are to bring our doubts into the presence of Christ. There, in the honesty of our questions and the messiness of our wounds, Jesus does not turn away. Instead, He draws near and gently invites us to trust Him more deeply.

Mercy is not just something we receive. It is something we are called to live. To forgive, to show compassion, to extend grace to those who have hurt us or whom we struggle to understand—this is the shape of a resurrected life. Mercy is the fruit of Easter, and it blossoms in us when we allow the peace of Christ to take root in our hearts.

This Sunday is an invitation to believe again—not just with our minds, but with our lives. To believe that brokenness can be healed, that peace can rise from fear, that love can conquer death. And to live each day with that quiet confidence that God's mercy is always greater than our sin, always stronger than our weakness, and always present—even behind locked doors and in hidden places of our hearts.

Let us walk forward from this Sunday not as people who have merely heard about mercy, but as people who have encountered it. And in that encounter, may we be changed—renewed by love, filled with peace, and sent out to be instruments of mercy in a waiting world.

Blaženi koji ne vidješe, a vjeruju!

Gospodin je imao razumijevanja za svoga apostola Tomu, te mu je iskazao milost osmog dana nakon uskrsnuća. Pokazao mu je svoje ruke i noge, kao i svoj bok, pozivajući ga da stavi svoj prst u mjesto čavala i svoju ruku u probodeni bok. Jer više to nisu bila bolna mjesta Gospodinove ljudskosti. Njegova ljudskost je sada bila preobražena božanskom snagom i njegove su rane postale ranarnik za naše boli i slabosti, za rane naše duše i tijela. Napose su postale ranarnik za ranu nevjere, jer je ona bila najpogubnija rana ljudskoga bića.

Dok Isus poziva Tomu da stavi svoj prst u njegove rane, u biti on svojom rukom dotiče Tomine rane i zacjeljuje ih. On Tomi proniče dušu i zahvaća svojom milošću sva bolna mjesta i čini ga zdravim, to jest obdaruje ga vjerom. Dok je Toma htio dodirnuti Gospodina iz perspektive sumnjičavca, Gospodin njega dodiruje božanskom snagom i liječi njegove rane.

I nama je dužnost dopustiti, kao što se dogodilo i Tomi, božansku izmjenu dodira s Gospodinom.

Svatko od nas ima svojih bolnih točki, svojih rana sumnje i nevjere, svog lošeg ili grešnog pristupa Bogu. Kao i Tomina, naša je ljudskost okrnjena, nagrižena i u trajnoj opasnosti da se uruši nevjerom i svakom drugom boli. Uskrsli Gospodin nam dolazi ususret svojom ljudskošću koja je cjelovita jer je zacijeljena božanskom snagom u uskrsnuću, te stoga on može svojom ljudskošću liječiti naše boli i zacjeljivati rane.

Dopustimo Uskrslom Gospodinu da nas dodirne, te da nam svojim božanskim prstom i rukom iscijeli biće, kako bismo po vjeri postali ne samo slični Tomi i apostolima koji su povjerovali, već sve sličniji njemu po snazi uskrsnuća koja se nastanila u nama.
